Where We Get Personal Information From

We collect your information directly from you.

How Long We Keep Information

We keep client records in accordance with professional standards, legal requirements, and insurance obligations. The following outlines our retention schedule for counselling and psychotherapy work with adults:

- Client session notes and related records:
Kept for 7 years from the date of the last contact/session, in line with guidance from insurance providers and professional bodies including the BACP, UKCP, and NCPS. After this period, records are securely destroyed.
- Email correspondence and administrative data (e.g. contracts, consent forms):
Also retained for 7 years from the end of contact unless required for longer due to legal proceedings or insurance claims.
- Financial records (e.g. invoices, payment history):
Retained for 6 years to comply with HMRC requirements.

If you request access to your records or choose to exercise your data rights, we may keep limited identifying information for up to 1 year beyond the retention period to confirm compliance and manage any follow-up queries.

You have the right to ask us to delete your information earlier, where appropriate. However, we may need to retain some information if required by law or for professional obligations (e.g. for safeguarding, clinical oversight, or audit purposes).

For more information on how long we store your personal information or the criteria we use to determine this, please contact us.

Who We Share Information With
